A learned and meditative scientist of Yale college has reached the conclusion that all life originated at the north pole. The great yearning of many people to reach that locality is, therefore, accounted for. The explorers are not actuated by a mercenary desire to acquire material for lecture dates, but are inspired by a avistic instinct.

A staircase that can be folded up is the general title of a novelty for carriages and steamboats. It is composed of any desired length, which makes ascent and descent easy. The device can be easily arranged to serve as a plank to walk from one place to another on the same elevation. It is the kind of thing that would be of great use in the event of fire, and it has the advantage of folding into a small compass.

Dr. H. K. Carroll, the authority on church statistics, says that the church membership gain in all denominations last year was 11/2 per cent., whereas the population increased at the rate of 2.6 per cent. He places the total church membership at 28,698,028, a gain of 403.743 over a year ago. The communistic societies, according to Dr. Carroll, are declining. The Shakers, he facts, have decreased 40 per cent since 1800.

One of the pathetic circumstances that came to light in New York city recently was that Pauline Markham, once the queen of stage beauties, is now earning scant subsistence by scrubbing floors in a Harlem flat building. This is the woman whose arms were once described as "the lost arms of Venus." She is old now and has lost her beauty, but she retains some measure of pride, for she conceals her identity behind a fictitious name.

Gen. Chaffee says that while in command of the American troops in China he knew the exact spot where a government treasure worth $80,000,000 was concealed, and that he would have seized and held it as part of the Chinese indemnity fund to the United States had he not been forbidden to do so by President McKinley. His action would have been justified by the laws of war, but the United States occupies a better position before the world for his not having seized the treasure.

Quite a youthful reporter asked Mark Twain for an interview on the coal situation. The newspaper man began by saying: "Mr. Clemens, I have been instructed to interview you on the humors of the coal famine." The New York Times says that the veteran humorist gasped feebly for a moment and then replied: "Young man, you go back to your editor and tell him if he emptied all the short and long dashes in his composing rooms into the forms he would then only be able to set up a prelude to my opinion on the coal situation."

The revolution caused in American surgery by the debut of Prof. Lorenz. of Vienna, may best be understood from the statement of a New York physician who says that the number of cases of congenital hip disease, which was about 500 in New York city at the time of Prof. Lorenz's arrival, has been reduced to about 180 cases and these are practically only the instances of the disease in older persons. Lorenz himself and his nur crous imitators have made a successful war through bloodless surgery on the malformations of the hip in children.

It is always well to try to get to the bottom of any clicking or creaking noise in a bicycle, even though it be slight. Often the trouble will be of little account, but it should be remembered that impending fractures of the saddle pillar or other parts of the tubing often reveal themselves beforehand in this way, so that attention may avert a nasty accident.

Alfred Harmsworth, London's famous newspaper proprietor, has called upon the Automobile club to appoint a committee of experts to consider the possibility of obviating 'side slipping" and to devise means to render it impossible. Mr. Harmsworth has had several narrow esrapes from this fault and declares automobiling is far too dangerous unless this fact be remedied.

ROBBERS AND OFFICERS FIGHT

Pinkerton Detective Killed in a Fight With Alleged Bank Robbers, Both of Whom Were Wounded.

Charles J. Schumacher, a Pinkerton detective from St. Louis, was killed in a battle with two men, William Anderson and Fred Lewis, who are supposed to be the robbers of the bank at Union. Anderson is also thought to have been wounded in the

Since the robbery of the Union bank the Pinkertons, in conjunction with the Missouri authorities, have made every effort to apprehend and capture the bold marauders. Detective Schumacher, who had been detailed on the case, received a "tip' to the effect that two of the robbers were William Anderson, alias Rudolph, and Fred Lewis, a painter from St. Louis, who was staying at the home of Anderson's stepfather. Frank Rudolph, near Stanton, in Franklin county. The house is a ramshackle affair, standing near the mouth of the Old Door mines, an abandoned hole, and near the Burboise river. The shafts and caves with which the region abounds afforded the robbers a splendid hiding place, according to the information Schumacher received, and he was told that to capture them would be a difficult task

The detective was not to be daunt ed, however, and he made his way to Stanton, where he made himself known to the authorities, and Deputy Sheriff O. L. Vedder and two special deputies were sworn in to aid him in the capture. The party left Stanton and started toward the Rudolph home. Stealthily they approached the house, but just as they were within a few feet of the door a fusilade came from within and the officers fled to the underbrush. All escaped but Schumacher, who fell, his body being riddled with bullets. After gaining cover the officers opened fire. and one of the robbers, supposed to be William Anderson, was shot in the head, but the wound is thought to have been a trivial one, as he and his companion, after routing the deputies, made their escape.

Vedder and his companion made their way back to Stanton and reported the result of the expedition to the authorities at Union, Sheriff Bruck immediately formed a posse and started in pursuit of the robbers He divided the posse, consisting of 13 men, into two parts, and each party took a different road in the direction in which the thieves had gone, One branch of the posse came up with the two men, one of whom had a handkerchief wrapped around his head and seemed weak from the losof blood. The robbers were seated on the ground when the posse ap proached, but at the sight of the pur sners leaped to their feet, and, mount ing their horses, started to flee, firing as they rode. The posse pursued, returning the fire, and one of the robbers, the one without the handker chief on his head, gave a cry of pain and Jurched forward in his saddle. His companion rode closer to him and, throwing his arm around the man in a supporting manner, gatloped away. The members of the pur suing party escaped injury. Robbers Got Big Booty.

An important fact which has been brought out is the admission of A. W. Hoffman, eashier of the Union bank, that the men who looted that institution at 1 o'clock in the morning of December 27 secured $110,000 in securities as well as $14,000 in cash. The fact that Detective Schumacher made no mistake when he "spotted" Anderson and Lewis as the robber was proven beyond a doubt when $800 of the money taken from the bank was found at the bottom of a cistern on the Rudolph place.

Evidence that Rudolph Family Had a Part in the Union Bank Robbery.

NITRO-GLYCERINE PLANT FOUND IN HOUSE

Detective and Deputy Sheriffs, Alded by People of the Neighborhood, Keeping on the Trail of the Outlaws, and the Prospects for Escape Are Small.

Union, Mo., Jan. 27.-Evidence which fastens the crime of the Union bank robbery upon William Rudolph and Fred Lewis, beyond doubt, and which incriminates the entire Rudolph family, has been discovered

It was the disclosure of a small nitro-glycerine plant in the Rudolph home, Monday.

Rudolph and Lewis, however, are safe for the time at least in the fastnesses around Buford, Mo., and though the posse is keeping up its search, it is striking no trails. Assistant Superintendent Charles worth, of the Pinkertons, is at the head of the posse near Baford, A Deputy on the Trail. Deputy Sheriff Bruchs, armed with a Winchester, left here Monday morning, single handed, to hasten to Shotwell, where he hopes to get a trail as to the fleeing men.

Lewis is wounded. He may be unable to keep up with Rudolph, and Rudolph is too desperate a man to let Lewis fall into the posse's hands "Dead men tell no tales," is his motto, and it is believed he will certainly kill his confederate if the emergency arises. Deputy Sheriff Vedder and Pinkertons meantime are sweating the Rudolph family, father, mother, daughter, and a neighbor, George Harmes, who are in jail here. The developments of Monday's search of the Rudolph premises are by far the most important since the inquiry was begun into the Rudolphs. Found $800 in Cash.

After the arrest of the family Sunday the deputies returned and found $500 in cash. This, in the light of Monday's developments, is undoubtedly part of the $14,000 secured from the Union bank. Deputies returned to the Rudolph home Monday and in prying about discovered a closet on the first floor. It was securely fastened. Tools were secured and the door was forced open.

hydrochloric acid, nitric acid, sulphuric acid, alcohol and all manner of chemicals used in the manufacture of the high explosive were stored in the and platform; the former supplied with Entire Country in Arms.

Advices received from Stanton at two o'clock Monday afternoon by the officials of the Union bank, state that $90,000 worth of the stolen securities were found on the Rudolph premises early this afternoon.

The reward of $1,500 for the bodies of Rudolph and Lewis, dead or alive and the general indignation has stirred the entire country to arms. A Good Hiding Pince.

The cabin where the battle took place is situated at the Old Door mines near the Bourboise river. The abandoned shafts and caves generally afford an excellent hiding place for criminals, but just now the ground is covered with snow and for that reason they could be tracked. It is just the place and environment for an outlaw gang's rendezvous.

CONFESSES TO MOOG MURDER. Albert Turk, of Collinsville, Ill., Admits that He Took Part in Killing the Aged Man.

St. Louis, Jan. 27.-Emil Turk, 23 years old, son of Albert Turk, a respected citizen of Collinsville, Ill., arrested Sunday for burglary and highway robbery, made the startling confession to Assistant Chief of Detectives Keely, Monday afternoon, of complicity in the murder of John Moog, an old eigarmaker, at 104 South Fourth street, on last Christmas eve. The confession was ob- Ry tained after the prisoner had been sweated by Keeley for some time,

According to Turk's version there were three men implicated in the murder. He was the look-out, stationed on the sidewalk in front of Moog's eigar store to watch for the police, while the other two went inside to kill Moog. He says that he received $15 for the part he took in the crime, but does not know how much the other men got. He was simply Schwartz with red-hot irons at Dry handed $15 and told that it was his share, he said.
